Visitors Guide to DEAL Kent

WELCOME TO DEAL

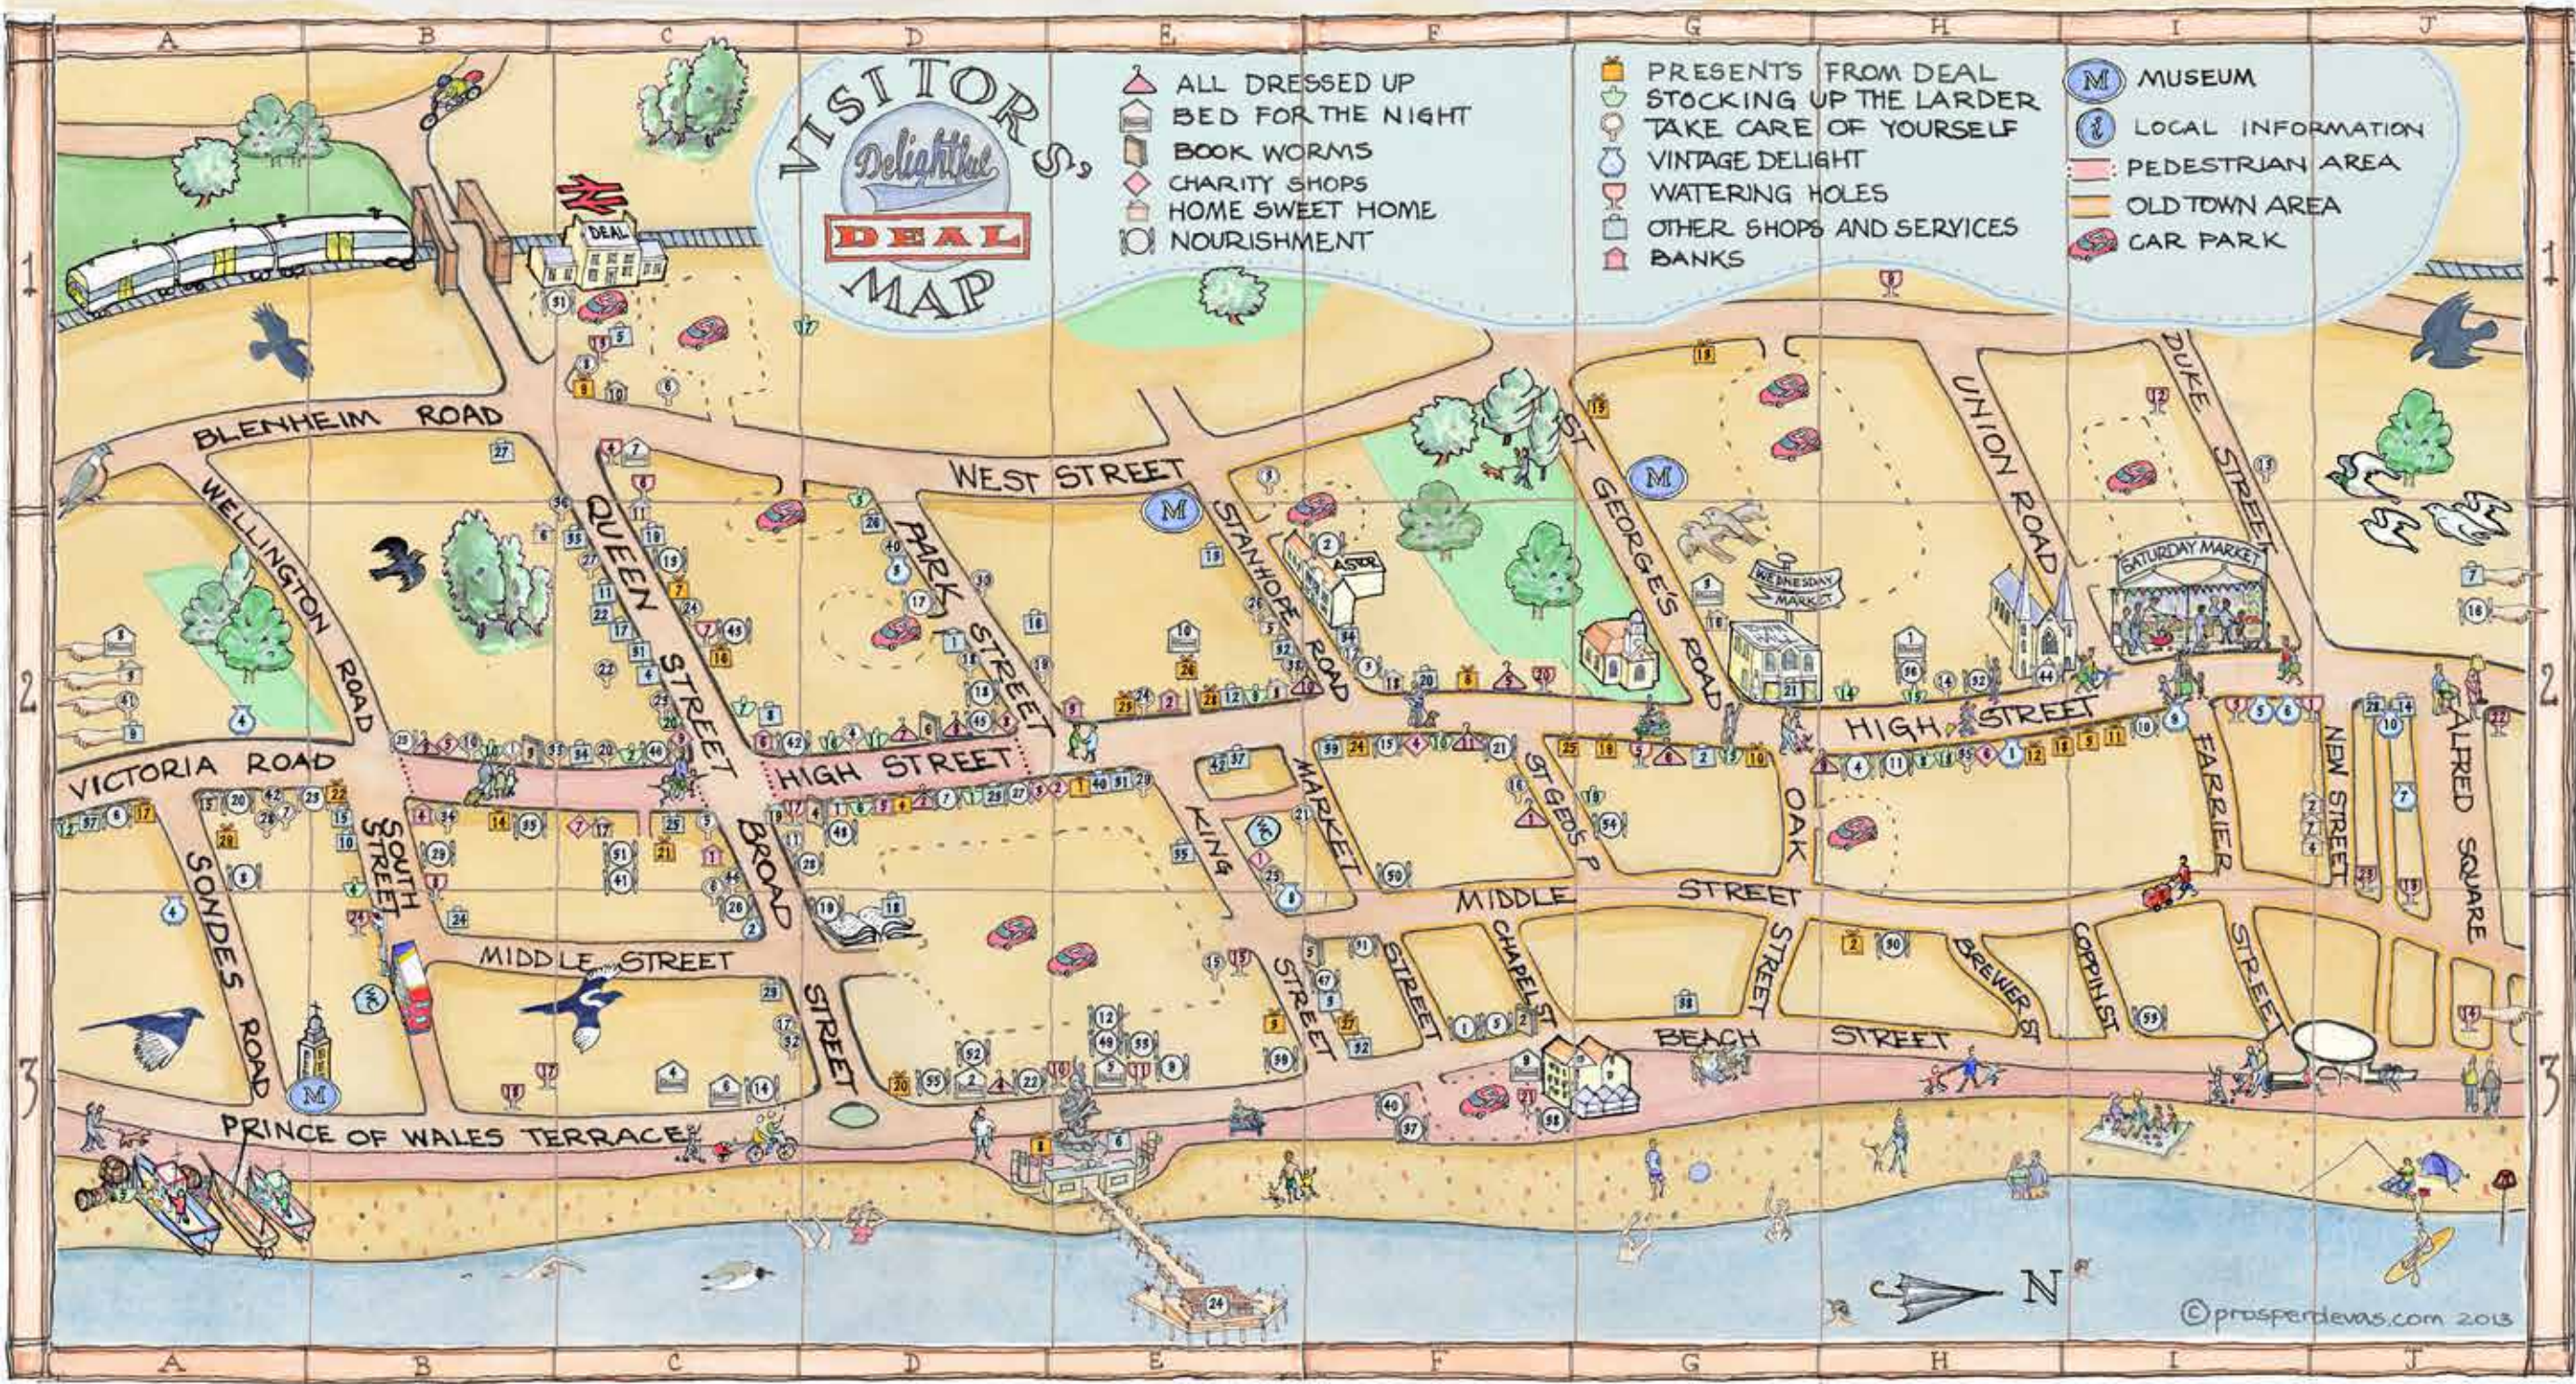

This guide will help you to discover Deal's many and varied treasures: a wealth of heritage, history, architecture and contemporary culture, mixed with vibrantly independent shopping, eating and drinking, a beautiful English seaside, complete with pier and a promenade stretching for miles in each direction.

Deal is a perfect town by the sea - and its unique flavour has attracted many colourful characters throughout history. Delve beneath the surface and you'll hear tales of Julius Caesar's landing; Nelson and Lady Hamilton's trysts; smuggling and shipwrecks on the Goodwin Sands and the dazzling parties thrown by Noel Coward. Whether it's Ian Fleming apparently naming 007 after the Deal to London bus, or the Carry On cast setting up to their usual shenanigans on a weekend away, Deal embraces all forms of creativity. Indeed, writers, artists and performers are still a strong presence, with Deal's music and theatre scenes both in fine fettle.

Historically, Deal was notorious for smuggling, revered for its three Tudor castles, renowned for its large mining community and celebrated being home to the world famous Royal Marines School of Music. Now, as rich and diverse a community as ever, the town is fast becoming a shopping and eating destination, beloved by visitors and natives alike. Deal was awarded UK High Street of the Year in 2014 and boasts one of the largest collections of independent shops, eateries, pubs and traders in the country: our little town is flying the flag for local living. Just beyond the town the Kentish countryside begins where you will find our acclaimed cycle tracks, foot-paths plus our excellent sailing, fishing and golf.

Now, with guide in hand, the town is yours to explore and you are certain not to be disappointed! Every one falls in love with something about Deal and many even find a reason or two to stay...

THE UNIQUE AREAS OF DEAL

The town falls naturally into a number of unique areas, each full of its own character. Within each area there is a range of tempting shops, pubs, places to eat and visitor attractions - just make sure you allow the time to explore and find lots more! Please see the pull out map at the back of this guide for exact location of shops and businesses.

HIGH STREET AREA

Starting from the station this area includes all the popular High Street names located in a convenient pedestrianised area. You will also find many unique shops providing products and gifts that are just a little different. The High Street is lively in the evening too, with many pubs, bars and restaurants. Carry on North up the High Street for lots more shops in the conservation area.

Vintage Deal

Vintage, retro and antique thrill seekers will quickly lose themselves in the town's array of welcoming independent outlets. For its size, Deal boasts an astonishing number of shops selling expertly-sourced vintage goods including furniture, clothes, vinyl records, collectables, books and object d'art! The Saturday market includes an ever-changing array of stalls selling yet more pre-owned delights. The High Street is also home to a handful of creatively-curated charity shops and the annual Braderie street market, which takes place in September, has bargain hunters flocking from far and wide.

Foodie Deal

If cooking with local ingredients, sourced from small, independent food producers is your thing, then a stroll down Deal High Street will get your taste buds tingling! The High Street boasts decadent delis and cheese shops; fabulous fish mongers (as well as regular catches from boats on the beach); independent butchers supplying Kentish meat and poultry; artisan bakeries offering sweet and savoury treats and green grocers stocked with locally-grown produce. During the week on Wednesdays & Fridays the local produce market can be found in the Town Hall undercroft and on Saturdays, Deal's main market transforms the north end of the High Street. Grab your shopping bags and prepare to be spoilt for choice!

If you prefer to enjoy breakfast, lunch or supper cooked for you while you watch the world go by, then Deal will not disappoint. You can taste test the full gamut of fish and chips shops; snack on cockles and winkles from the seafood stall; breakfast on the end of the pier; brunch at any number of characterful cafés, enjoy coffee and cake for elevenses; lunch in a family-friendly bistro; indulge in an ice cream at a seafront parlour; and, with that last bit of energy, dine the night away at one of Deal's fine restaurants.

CONSERVATION AREA

Deal's Conservation Area stretches from South Street to North Street taking in the Astor Theatre in Stanhope Road, the Maritime Museum, St. George's Church, the many independently owned shops at the northern end of the High Street - and St. George's Passage - plus the historic houses in Middle Street as far as Alfred Square. Please see the pull out map at the back of this guide for exact location of shops and businesses.

SEAFRONT AND PIER

Not only one of the last piers to be built in England but a variety of pubs & restaurants and a seafood stall snuggle on the seafront. Just past the fishing boats pulled up onto the beach you will find Henry VIII's powerful coastal fortress. Stunning views to the Goodwin Sands, where countless ships have met their fate. Climb the Timeball Tower for spectacular views. Please see the pull out map at the back of this guide for exact location of shops and businesses.

Nostalgic Seaside

Deal's unspoilt seafront, with its endless promenade, is the perfect place to indulge in your sentimental seaside memories - or create new ones!

Take an entire week-end to refresh in the salty air, strolling along the coast to Walmer and beyond or dangling a line from the pier. While many hardy locals swim from Deal beach all year round, taking a dip on a bright summer's day is an unforgettable treat for even the most fair-weather swimmers. In the summer you can catch the rowing and sailing regattas or, later on, enjoy the fair and carnival parade with its floats and fancy dress. Deal retains its original amusement arcade, and its old school magic will keep the children entertained for hours with 'shove penny' & candyfloss.

BEYOND THE SEAFRONT AND PIER

Beyond Deal Castle, following the seafront south along the Strand, you will pass the paddling pool, the Deal Memorial bandstand on Walmer Green, the lifeboat station, beach huts and sailing club before reaching the beautiful Walmer Castle and Gardens.

WALMER STRAND, PADDLING POOL & MEMORIAL BAND STAND

There are a variety of shops and cafes along the Strand facing Walmer Green where the bandstand is a memorial to the Royal Marines. During the summer months popular band concerts are held here and you can relax on the green with a picnic or sit outside one of the local hostelryes. Admire the former Marines' barracks & School of Music whose Georgian character has been preserved. The popular paddling pool for children 10 years and under, comprises changing rooms and toilet, a refreshment kiosk selling hot and cold snacks. (open summer only) 01304 375029

DEAL CASTLE

Deal is the largest of the three great coastal forts of Sandown, Deal and Walmer, built by Henry VIII to beat the threat of the Catholic Alliance of France and Spain in the 16th century. The huge rounded bastions designed to deflect shots once carried 66 guns and have over 145 embrasures for firearms. Deal is a fascinating castle to explore with breathtaking views as you wander round the mighty battlements. Sadly Sandown Castle no longer exists, but you can still visit the site at the northern end of the seafront. Tel: 01304 372762

WALMER CASTLE & GARDENS

This Tudor castle has been transformed over the years into an elegant home and residence of the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports. Today visitors can see the principle rooms and enjoy the garden created for the Queen Mother's 95th birthday.

Another famous resident was the Duke of Wellington - see his bedroom with the simple camp bed on which he slept plus of course his famous boots!

CYCLE ROUTES

Great cycling can be enjoyed on both local or National Cycle Routes

www.whitecliffscountryside.org.uk

National Cycle Route 1

From Deal to Sandwich Take route 1 north from Deal Pier along Beach Street, then inland to cross marsh-lands drained by medieval monks, past golfers and sand dunes under huge skies. Look out for all the sea birds and rare plants; stop for a picnic on the beach or in the dunes.

National Cycle Route 1

From Deal to Dover Start in Deal near the spot on the beach where Julius Caesar landed in 55BC and head south. In Walmer, the path passes the Castle and Walmer Green, with the Lifeboat House, cafes and paddling pool - ride slowly and be especially careful of pedestrians along this stretch. At Kingsdown the route again leaves the road to follow a shared path next to the wide peaceful shingle beach, colonized by rare plants and with spectacular seashore views. The route to Kingsdown follows an off road track across open downland with lovely views but it is unlit, so not to be recommended at night.

The Miners' Way Cycle Trail

A new 30 mile route which explores the beautiful lower slopes of the North Downs between Deal and Shepherdswell, past what remains of old coal mines opened in a twenties rush for "black gold". Starts at Sholden on one of the first cycle tracks in the country, alongside the A258. Look out for interesting local churches, many birds including skylarks.

The Skylark Trail

The country road to Dover Starting from Victoria Park near Deal Station following an off route avoiding traffic to Walmer Station. From there the route heads out into the country, over the level crossing, past Ringwould (lovely old church and yew trees, and a fine pub). Great views of open countryside, old woods and hedgerows - listen to the skylarks.

FOOTPATHS

Deal is charming to explore on foot, from gentle walks following the sea to Sandwich or Kings down, to more demanding long distance footpaths.

Saxon Shore Way

Extends some 160 miles around the coast and follows the coastline as it was some 1500 years ago, the stretch from Deal to Dover has been described as the most exciting and evocative of all.

North Downs Way

Can be picked up in Dover and offers tranquillity, beauty, historical and literary interest and some splendid natural history. Much of the Dover route follows the chalk escarpment.

Betteshanger Country Park

This park is a nature reserve encompassing 200 acres of natural beauty with added facilities including rambling, walking, bird watching as well as a road race cycling circuit, BMX Track, cross country running and orienteering facilities. Bike Hire is available. There is also a short circular bridleway accessed from the Southwall Road entrance only.

www.dealbandstand.org

Deal Maritime and Folk Festival

September A must-see festival featuring morris sides, energetic cloggers and acoustic harmonies from shanty singers staged in cosy local pubs and around ancient streets.

www.dealfolkbythesea.org.uk

Astor Community Theatre Stanhope Road

This vibrant new venue hosts exciting events from music to dance and plays, with internationally acclaimed artists. There is a year round programme of a variety of events to suit all tastes. www.theastor.org

SMUGGLING

The town of Deal had become a notorious haunt of smugglers as early as 1745, and was well deserved to be dubbed 'a sad, smuggling town' by an 18th century writer. That smuggling was going on was obvious not from activity in the town, but from lack of it.

The smugglers used secret tunnels and underground hiding places to steal their goods away from ships. Many of these tunnels remain hidden away, especially in the seafront conservation area.

Smuggling in Deal became such a nuisance to the Prime Minister William Pitt that he sent the troops in. The townspeople were forewarned (by carrier pigeon), and turned out in considerable numbers to resist the raid. However, the military prevailed by sheer force of numbers, they marched down to the beach, where the smugglers had pulled their boats well above the high-water mark to secure them from the storms. The military set fire to all of them in front of their outraged but helpless owners.

Despite this setback, smuggling soon resumed in the town, and continued to enjoy the support of much of the community. To add insult to (near) injury, in 1817 the Mayor of Deal ordered the arrest of the midshipmen, accusing them of assault on the free-traders! Smuggling even continued in the town in a small way into the last quarter of the 19th century, long after the free-trade had been effectively snuffed out elsewhere.

The narrow streets of Deal were the perfect cover for smugglers! www.smuggling.co.uk

DEAL HISTORIC TOWN TRAIL

Smugglers, revenue men, women of the night, murders and shipwrecks: discover more of Deal's fascinating and notorious past by following this historic town trail. At each numbered site on the map you will find an information panel giving an illustrated account of Deal's history.

1 DEAL PIER Re-built in 1957 to replace the previous Victorian pier which was demolished in 1940.

2 BEACH STREET Admiral Nelson stayed with his mistress Lady Emma Hamilton at the nearby Royal Hotel in 1801.

3 GOODWIN SANDS For centuries untold numbers of ships ran aground and sank on the sands. The sands are now home to a diverse marine life, including a colony of 350 grey seals.

4 ALFRED SQUARE & MIDDLE STREET This area was once crowded with pubs, sailors, smugglers, press gangs and 'women of the night'.

5 MIDDLE STREET The heart of the Georgian conservation area and the centre of Deal's notorious smuggling activities.

6 MIDDLE STREET No 73 is reported to be the house where in 1801, Nelson's great friend Captain Edward Parker died.

7 TOWN HALL & ST GEORGE'S CHURCH During the Napoleonic wars Nelson frequently worshipped in this church.

8 HIGH STREET Once called Lower Street because the land here was often flooded by the sea.

9 QUEEN ANNE HOUSE & CROWN COURT The local hangman once lived in this area.

10 SOUTH STREET AND CARTER HOUSE Home for the famous scholar - Elizabeth Carter.

11 VICTORIA ROAD Originally called Prospect Place.

12 DEAL CASTLE One of Henry VIII's coastal fortresses.

13 PRINCE OF WALES TERRACE Marks the sea frontage of the Old Naval Yard of 1703 which became a Victorian promenade.

14 MARITIME DEAL The treacherous waters off Deal demanded pilots with specialised local knowledge.

15 TIMEBALL TOWER Built in 1820 it stands on the site of the Old Naval yard. Connected directly to Greenwich, it gave accurate time signals to ships anchored off Deal.

16 WALMER CASTLE It is the official residence of the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports.

17 WALMER STRAND The open, shelving beach near here was almost certainly the landing place of Julius Caesar whose Roman fleet invaded Britain in 55BC

DEAL TOWN HALL

The present Town Hall was built in 1803. The Grade II listed structure was built as a Market House, Gaol with four cells, Council Chamber, a room for Magistrates and it has housed the town fire engine in the past. The Town Hall is now the office for Deal Town Council and also the home to some stunning oil paintings and artefacts of Deal.

On display in the Mayor's Parlour is the original Deal Charter written in Latin, and signed and sealed by King William III on 13th October 1699. It was this document that gave Deal the standing of 'A Borough and a Market Town'.

The portrait of William III in the Town Hall Chamber is attributed to a follower of Sir Godfrey Kneller whilst the portrait of Elizabeth Carter - a resident of Deal and one of the original Bluestocking Circle - is signed by Joseph Highmore who attended the academy of Sir Godfrey.

The Mayor's Parlour also houses an original watercolour 'Deal in a storm' by renowned artist JMW Turner. Viewing of the Town Hall, the paintings and other artefacts is by appointment only. Please contact the number below for details.

Heritage Open Day

Deal Town Council holds an Open Day during September, where members of the public are invited to the Town Hall to view all paintings, artefacts, ceremonial robes. For dates of this event please contact the Town Hall. Guided tours of the Town Hall are available to book all year round, please contact the Event Manager on the number below.

DEAL MARITIME AND LOCAL HISTORY MUSEUM

Housed in an old industrial building on the site of a former market garden, Deal Maritime and Local History Museum itself has as rich a history as the exhibits it displays and cares for within its walls.

The displays portray the changing history of Deal, Walmer and the surrounding area. It is packed to the rafters with fascinating glimpses into the past.

The Museum holds a number of Deal boats including the Saxon King, built in 1891 and a Dunkirk "Little Ship." There is also a wonderful collection of model boats. Visit the Museum to find out more about the impact of the Goodwin Sands on Deal and tales of smuggling and lifeboat rescues.

Browse the information on the famous people who have lived in the area, the Hooden Horse which delighted children on Christmas Eve, local industries and shops and the impact of the Royal Marines in Deal.
